Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 12.-The Big Four had new switchmen and new switchengine crews in the yard to-day and sent out several freight trains. The new men wore badges as deputy United States marshals, but these did not save them from the | the Detroit division from this city, and the jeers of the crowd of several hundred strikers and sympathizers who followed them while they worked. The freight trains sent | has been only partly resumed. Engineers east were captured by miners at Fontanet, a few miles out, where they were sidetracked. Five deputy United States marshals were sent there this evening, but were not able to secure the release of the trains. The operators who own the mines at Fontanet say the act of to-day was on the part of a comparatively few, and these are mostly youths.

Sheriff Stout with deputies is at Fontanet to-night, and the report is the miners are determined that the freight trains shall not be released. Some of the train crews deserted their posts and left the scene. One of the new firemen was taken from his engine and laid across the track in front of the engine, his captors telling the engineer to run over him. Fifty deputy United States marshals were brought here to-night to be sent to Fontanet in the morning, when another effort will be made to release the freight trains, of which there are now five. Sheriff Stout will also have fifty deputies on hand, The new baggageman at the Big Four depot here was assaulted this afternoon, but, with the use of brass knuckles, he gave both of his assailants a severe beating. For two nights now there has been apprehension that fires would be started in the Chicago & Eastern Illinois yards.

Any employe failing to comply with this notice will be considered as discharge certificate will be issued, and on application to the paymaster he will receive all moneys due him."

This afternoon about one hundred Vandalia shopmen and switchmen met at the Council chamber and were about to vote an the resolution to return to work when an A. R. U. man called on all who were loyal to the order to follow him out of the chamber. This broke up the meeting. Later, at another place, a committee was appoint ed to learn who had called the meeting at the Council chamber. Many employes called on Mr. Williams and assured him that they wanted to return to work. It is the purpose of the management to begin operating the yard and shops to-morrow with the old men, if they return, and with new men if they do not. The East St. Louis switchmen have been discharged and a new force will be put in there at once.

Grand Master Sargent to-day received a large number of letters from firemen who | adopted: belonged to the brotherhood, but who lost their places by going with the A. R. U., them restored. The report that he has been is not true.

Private Acton Will Recover.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLUFFTON, Ind., July 12.-Horton Acton, member of the State militia, Company E, Fourth Regiment, who was severely injured while on duty guarding a railroad bridge near Hammond, was brought home last evening. He was struck by a Monon engine and knocked down an embankment twenty feet. His injuries are mostly about the head, although his body is badly bruised. When word reached here that he would be brought home on a night train hundreds of people gathered at the depot so that they might catch a glimpse of the wounded soldier. His physicians have hopes of his recovery.

at the A. R. U. Boycott.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 12.—The papers all have editorials to-day replying to the demand of the A. R. U. that they remain neutral. The News, Journal, Gazette, and Staats Zeitung take decided stands and most emphatically decline to accept a censorship of their papers. The News says were they to remain neutral they could not criticise the harshness and inhumanity of Pullman, nor commend the patriotic course of Governor Matthews, nor condemn Governor Altgeld. The Journal, at the end of an eloquent editorial, closes: "As between the A. R. U. on one side and maintenance of the government on the other, we are for law and order every The Gazette is more sarcastic and prints the letter verbatim. All of the papers expect to be boycotted to-morrow. The strike in this city is practically over, and passenger and freight trains are running regularly on all roads excepting the Wabash and Nickle-plate lines. Their passenger trains are all right, but the freights are irregular. By to-morrow they expect to have everything running on time.

The Wabash Resuming Business.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PERU, Ind., July 12.-The entire eastern division of the Wabash railway, including Montpelier-Chicago division, is rapidly recovering from the strike. Freight service and firemen and all other employes who have been out are here in this city seeing Superintendent Gould with a view of having their places restored to them. All of the new men employed will be retained by the company, and the old men who refused to work must file their applications and take their chances. None of the local unions have shown a disposition to go out. The fifty odd engineers here from the East are quartered in the shops of the company awaiting their turn to go out on regular Child Bitten by Rattlesnake.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PERU, Ind., July 12.-The two-year-old child of Augustus Banks, a farmer living immediately north of this city, was bitten late last evening by a rattlesnake, from the effects of which it will probably die. The child was playing in the road in front of the house, and when found by the mother it was playing with the snake. The fangs of the reptile entered the child's leg below the knee. It was immediately brought to this city, and Drs. Graham and loomfield worked all night in an endeavor to save it. At 5 o'clock this morning was considered out of danger and taken home. Since then the leg has swollen to three times its natural size and the child will probably die. The snake killed had Jason Brown Defeated by Stockslager in the Second District.

The Harrison County Man Had Almost Two Votes to the Congressman's One at North Vernon.

"LIARS, DOGS AND DEVILS"

Brown Seals His Political Fate in Unparalleled Manner.

Adjournment of the Convention During an Uproar All that Prevented Several Encounters.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. NORTH VERNON, Ind., July 12 .- Democracy of the Third congressional district today turned down Congressman, the Hon. Jason B. Brown, of Jackson county, and nominated Strother S. Stockslager, of Harrison county. The victory of Stockslager is believed to have been won at the expense of losing the district, for, after the exhibition the Brown people made of themselves, to swing around and support the nominee would involve the rankest selfstultification. The temper of Brown and his adherents was shown in the address of Jason Brown, in which he "skinned alive" the men who accomplished his defeat. This morning the district committee met and decided upon the amended basis of apportionment as outlined in the special to the Journal last night. This increased the number of delegates from 107 to 141. The Stock-slager men denounced it as a villainous scheme to wrest from them a fairly-earned victory, but at the same time the Stock-slager men proceeded to gather in their proportion of the additional delegates, and when the convention met the nomination of Stockslager was a foregone conclusion. Senator Leyden, chairman of the district committee, called the convention to order at 1 o'clock, and set the pace that Brown was to follow later. He explained the circumstances under which the original call was issued and the reasons that prompted the change in the basis of apportionment. "If any man claims," said he, "that this change was for the purpose of enhancing the chances of any candidate the truth is not in him and he is a dirty scoundrel. I hope," continued Senator Leyden, "this convention will not repeat the blunder committed in the Sixth, when the man nominated declined and stalked off to Washington to accept a federal appointment." DRIVE AT STOCKSLAGER. This was a drive at Stockslager, who ran away from the nomination the year when there was a prospect of defeat and accepted the commissionership in the Land Office. Charles J. Kirbly, of Madison, was chosen permanent chairman, and spoke briefly, endeavoring to pour oil on the waters. There was a row over the appointment of the committee on resolutions. Dr. Wolf, of Jeffersonville, offered a list of members, which Representative Barnes opposed, charging an attempt on the part of the machine to throttle the convention and suppress its sentiments. Barnes offered an amendment authorizing the delegation from each county to choose its member on the committee. The first amendment prevailed. The convention then proceeded to nominate a candidate. The name of Jason B. Brown was presented by George H. the convention by William Ridley. The ballot resulted as follows:

Counties. Stockslager. Brown. Clarke Floyd 28 Harrison 16 Jennings Washington 17 Chairman Korbly announced that Mr.

Stockslager had received a majority of al the votes cast and declared him the nominee. The cheering having subsided, Mr. Brown moved to make the nomination unanimous. Stockslager sat across the aisle and a row in front of his vanquished foe. In a burst of gratitude and concilia tion he stepped across to Brown and extended his hand, but the olive branch was rejected. Brown contemptuously waved his successful rival aside and the latter slunk to his seat. In answer to loud calls Stockslager arose and accepted the honor. He spoke a half hour, declaring adherence to everything Democratic, and concluding with a mild deprecation of the savage onslaught by Senator Leydon. In answer to loud cails, Mr. Brown marched up, deposited on the table a formidable bundle of documents and proceeded to deliver himself of the most remarkable address perhaps ever heard in a political convention. From the character of it it was interpreted as Jason Brown's formal retirement from political life, for no man with political plans for the future would sow such thistles and briars as are bound to spring from Brown's utterances of to-day.

"I thank you most sincerely," he began, "for this most graceful and generous reception, but such evidences of favor are not necessary to keep me in the Democratic ranks and lines. The best services I have given to the Democratic party have not been rendered while I was carrying the flag, but when I have been in the trenches. I am back there now. I want no scenes of the immediate past in this district re-enacted. I am for the election of every Democrat nominated in the State district and county, and that includes the nominee in this district for Congress. I am not one of these Democrats who work only when he is a candidate and who works only when he has a selfish interest to subserve. I keep my eye on the pole star of Democracy and have followed it and will follow it through all its vicissi-When God created man and endowed him with all his attributes he implanted in him the instinct of self-defense In my political career I have never heretofore availed myself of that right. In law and politics I have allowed every sleuth hound to bark at my heels and have made no defense. Now I have decided that it is proper to make a defense. The campaign in this district opened early this season. The result in Clark county was that I defeated Stockslager 1,200 votes and Marsh four hundred That narrowed the contest down to me and Stockslager.

DEVILISH SLANDER. "But no sooner was the contest in Clark county decided than the foulest and vilest slanders the devil ever invented were set afloat over the district against me by the friends of Saockslager. They said when Brown's vote was needed in the House that an officer had to be sent out to drag him from some disreputable resort. This was charged by these disreputable liars and cowardly hounds, some of whom I see in this convention. They spread it all over the district. There is not a scintilla of truth in the charge. I have resided in Washington five years and Stockslager has lived there thirteen years. When I went to Washington sought Stockslager's advice and received it freely, and I never refused any request of his. Our relations for five years were as close as the lations between two men could If any man knows whether my conduct was correct and my habits right, Stockslager knew, and I ask him now to look you in the face and say whether this charge was true. As he uttered this Brown turned and shook his fist at Stockslager, who sat on the stage, pausing for a reply. Stockslager arose and moved toward the front of the stage. "I never said it," he began. "That doesn't answer the question." thundered Brown. "State whether my con-

"It was exemplary," faltered Stocksla-"Gentlemen," resumed Brown, "I ask you to judge whether or not he is mistaken when he says he never heard of it before. (Derisive laughter from Brown men.) Every day I have sent him the Congressional Record, and I ask him if there is any account of my being brought to the bar of justice. If I had been he would have posted it on every oak tree in the district." Holding up a pamphlet Brown continued: "Herein is the evidence that I have duct was exemplary or not.'

some standing in the House of Congress. Here in the committee on privileges and elections the name of your humble servant comes first. I am the only Indiana Democrat ever made chairman of that Grand old Dick Thompson over on the Wabash, had it, and so did Major Calkins, but I am the only Democrat. If my habits had been as the lies of these abominable wretches would have you believe, would I have been appointed to that chairmanship? When I carried Clark county it was seen that only by an attack of slime and filth could I be defeated. The Corydon Democrat, the New Albany Led-ger and the Salem Democrat were made the vehicles for the carriage of this filth and slime. No scandal was too dirty, no lie too great for them to give currency.

CURSES THE EDITORS. "I know Jonathan Peters, of the New Albany Ledger, and I am sorry he is not here. He supported me in 1888, and I am better now than I was then, for I am six years nearer heaven. But Peters wanted the New Albany postoffice and did not get it. Four years ago, when Josiah Gwin thrashed him, he poured his tale of woe in my ear, but why devote more attention to Peters? In the language of the old Spanish proverb, 'It were a waste of lather to shave an ass.' Then there is Jennings, of the Salem Democrat. Jennings wanted consulate and came on to Washington. I did the best I could for him. People in his town wanted to be rid of him, and I was willing to help them. I once had a spotted coach dog that stuck to me like a leach, but that dog wasn't a circumstance to Jennings. He stuck closer than a brother. He came home and was voluminous in his correspondence, and signed himself, 'Yours, to Command.' When Jennings found that consulate gone he joined hands with Peters. I confess I have done some things I should not have done, and have left undone some things I should done, but I never thrashed my wife. I leave it to my constituents to say whether I should have done the things these sleuth-hounds said I did. "But I am not the only man who has been the victim of the slander of these scorpions. Michael C. Kerr, Speaker of the House, great man that he was, felt their sting, and was scandalized to his grave. But Kerr has gone up higher, and his tra-ducers are writhing in hell, where they Mr. Brown then addressed a few remarks to the A. P. A. "I despise and spit with contempt in the face of every A. P. A.." said he. "They are against every one who worships under the cross of the Catholic Church. If I were going to run for Congress this term it would be that I might lay the lash on the back of the A. P. A. until the blood ran to their heels. Bah! The mention of them makes me sick et my stomach. A man running on the Democratic ticket who would ask the vote of one of these scullions and traitors ought to be beaten. I trust (turning to Stockager) there is no man running in this district who has received help from this treasonable organization.

'A word about civil-service reform. If I could have given an office to every applicant Stockslager would not have been in it. He would now be hanging on to the coupling pole. The people I did appoint were honest Democrats and none of them were my relatives. I have tried to get appointments on, but had this bill stuck under my nose. I hate and despise the civilservice law. It should have been passed by the A. P. A. It was passed in 1883, and I have been its common enemy ever since. You are opposed to this civil-service rot and yet you put me out and put in Stockstager, who voted for it. Stockslager will not have to apologize for any acts of mine. GAVE HIM NIGHTMARE. "Nothing I did will make him have the nightmare or cause the Democrats of this district to blush. And now, friends, when I cross the threshold to my loved ones I will say to them, 'I bring you no gold; I have not been seen by the trusts, but I come with honor and good repute. Dogs may bark and howl, but my record is clean.' When a man has lived to be fiftyfive years old and has been honest and true he can lift his eyes to the stars and exclaim. 'It is not all of life to live nor all of death to die,' And now I turn back to you the trust you committed to me, without spot to mar it or blotch to blot it." (Great cheering.) As Mr. Brown came down off the platform a small man with red whiskers came down the aisle and, facing the convention, demanded to be heard. It was George K Guartney, of the Corydon Democrat, who has been excordiated by Brown, together with Peters and Jennings. of Brown set up a yell for "Marsh, Marsh." The presiding officer rapped for order and informed the convention that this was no dog fight, but a Democratic convention.

Guartney again essayed to speak, and shouted: "You have listened to the bull bellow. It was Jason's---' Here the friends of Brown set up another howl that completely drowned the piping voice of Guartney, and the latter was declared out of order. A delegate moved to adjourn, and the motion was declared out of order. The convention had yet to from the committee resolutions. A delegate whispered in the ear of Korbly, and another motion to adjourn was put and carried. The Brown people were dumbfounded They had prepared a series of resolutions denouncing in scathing terms the A. P. A., their scheme being to compel the convention to pass or reject them. One course would have alienated the Catholic vote, the other that of the A. P. A. The Stockslager men saw the trap, and by adjourning dodged it. As the crowd filed out Guartney said:

"If I had known I was to be hooted down, I would have skinned Brown's nose as he passed me. As it is, Jason will have to settle with me. I will not rest under the insuits he heaped on me. This evening there is one citizen of North Vernon who is feeling very comfortable. He is Robert Tracewell, the Republican pominee for Congres in this district. Mr. Tracewell is confident the rent in the Democracy means his election.

Unanimous Nominations.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 12.-The Republicans of the thirty-second judicial circuit, comprising the counties of St. Joseph and LaPorte, assembled here at 2 o'clock this afternoon and named men to make the race for judge and prosecuting attorney next November. Hon. Lucius Hubbard, of this city, was unanimously chosen for the judgeship, and Hon. John C. Richter, of LaPorte, was unanimously selected as nominee for prosecutor. Mr. Hubbard is now in London, and was notified of his nomination. He was born and raised in this county There is little doubt of the election of both. Mr Richter was born and raised in LaPorte and is twenty-eight years old. He has served one term in the Indiana Legislature.

Sargeant Will Not Run. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 12 .- Owing to the troubles brought about by the strike, Grand Master Sargent, who has been prominently identified as the Republican candidate for Congress from this district, has withdrawn from the race. He feels that in being loyal to the brotherhood and in urging the firemen to refrain from striking he has incurred the enmity of many hot-heads.

Naples. Lillian Nordica's Husband Alive. BOSTON, July 12 .- A private letter received in this city from London announces that Frederick Gower, husband of Mme. Lillian Nordica, is alive and in London. Mr. Gower was supposed to have been lost in a balloon in the English channel, and for the past ten years mourned as dead, and his large property divided. Though diligent search was made at the time for the body it was not found. Mme. Nordica is now in Flight of a Blackmailer.

NEW YORK, July 12.-Wardman James Keily, formerly of the Leonard-street station, who was accused before he Lexow committee with having collected money for the sale of sidewalk privileges to merchants, was indicted by the grand jury today. Simultaneously with the announcement of his indictment came the news that he could not be found, and had probably fled to Europe, Orangemen Assaulted. PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The Association of Orangemen held their annual celebration and picnic to-day and afterwards paraded down Broad street. At Callowell street one of a crowd of onlookers threw a stone into the ranks. Instantly a street fight ensued. Bricks and other missiles followed in a vottey, and the enraged Orangemen charged into the crowd and used freely the first weapons they could lay hands on. The fight was renewed two blocks below with even greater spirit arrests were made, and Patrick Friel and Michael Burns were so seriously battered and bruised that they were taken of 500 Coxeyites Making Trouble in Michigan.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., July 12 .- A Coxey army, five hundred strong, has seized Michigan Central freight train here, and the men swear they are going to Bay City on it. The city offered the railroad $150 to take the army out of the county, but the company wanted excursion rates. The railroad officials would rather have them go by boat, but all boats are guarded, and back out into the straits at first sight of the men.

"General" Kelly at the Capital. WASHINGTON, July 12.-Kelly, the leader of the so-called industrial army, is near here, and is making arangements with Frey to consolidate their bands at Roslyn, Va., just across the river from this city. Kelly asserts that he has six hundred men between here and Portsmouth, O., and that the first detachment will reach Washington in a week via the Chesapeake & Ohlo canal. He says his men separated into bands in order to secure more food than each could obtain if the men were in one large body.

Thirty-Five Wealers Arrested. PITTSBURG, July 12 .- Thirty-five commonwealers, under General Clark, were arrested at midnight for taking possession of an old icehouse on the South Side. They are locked up, but this afternoon were released under promise of leaving the city

SAGINAW, Mich., July 12.-The races at Union Park to-day drew out five thousand people. The track was in splendid condition and the weather fine, barring a fresh wind. In the unfinished 2:14 trot, three heats of which were trotted yesterday, only one heat was required to finish the race, Azote taking it handily. In the free-for-all pace Robert J. was a hot favorite and justified his backers. Flying Jib took the first heat in 2:07, but acted badly in the succeeding heats, and was shut out in the fourth. L'e Now Demands It, but Refused It from the Great Northern. Chicago Inter Ocean. When did Mr. Debs become a convert to arbitration? Early in April of this year he ordered a strike on the Great Northern rallroad. The company had gone over schedules with the chiefs of all the old organizations of labor represented in the road and the men were taking a vote on these when Mr. Debs ordered the strike. After this strike had been in force for two weeks the American Railway Union and a committee of employes on a strike sent a message to President Hill asking for a conference. President Hill wired back this reply: "The company is always ready to receive and hear its employes or their representatives on all matters affecting their relations with the company. Vice President Clough, of the same road said at the same time: "The company has stated time and again that it is always ready to hear its employes who have grievances. The men know Mr. Debs and the American Rallway inion refused to submit to arbitration the differences between the company and the men. Governor Nelson, of Minnesota, and the Boards of Trade of Minneapolis and St. Paul repeatedly tried to have the differences arbitrated. President Hill expressed his willingness for such arbitration, because he had been the first railway president to suggest this plan of settlement. But arbiration would not recogn the American Railway Union. Debs wanted a conference because that would place him on the same footing with Chiefs Arthur, Sargent and Clark, of the engineers' firemen's and conductors' brotherhoods. President Hill agreed to the conference. and met the thirty-three members of the American Railway Union and the grievance committee of the employes in St. Paul, April 26. Mr. Hill announced, at this conference, his willingness to arbitrate, but the American Rallway Union demanded, as the first condition, that the road grant all the wage schedule in force prior to last That was Mr. Debs's manner of meeting an offer of arbitration at St. Paul. He had successfully tied up the Great Northern road, and he refused all offers of con mise not dictated by himself and his union. He then placed himself in just the position he now claims the Pullman company in in.
